ARETE

Anyone can have class. However, its character is none the less elusive. Class is difficult to define; it is much more evident in its absence. Since part of class is not boasting about it, the no-class people stand out. For every class athlete you see, you can name any number of showboats, alibiers, cheaters, and losers.

The Greek philosophers had a remedy for it; Arete (ar-uh-tay). Arete is the pursuit of excellence. It is the process of self-actualizing and striving to reach your highest potential. Arete also contains the idea of something, whether it is an object or a creature, doing exactly what it was made for. Arete means that individual being the absolute embodiment of what they were designed to be. It is not being better than something else; it is the best of what it is. Arete is you being the best Basketball Player, Teammate, Student, and Person you can be with the ability (both strengths and weaknesses) God has given you.

THE IMPORTANT THING ABOUT ACTIONS IS NOT WHAT YOU DO BUT THE WAY YOU DO IT. "Every calling is great," said Oliver Wendell Holmes; "when greatly pursued." It is the old refrain all over again. HAVE NO CARE FOR THE OUTCOME. PLAY THE GAME TO THE FULLEST BUT ALWAYS SHOW A LITTLE CLASS. The great ones, whether they are mechanics or cardiologists, waiters or lawyers, mothers or daughters, always do. They have all those virtues and qualities that go with class. They also have faith. Faith in themselves, faith in what they are doing, faith in those they do it with, and faith in a higher power. THEY BELIEVE THE WAY THEY DO SOMETHING MATTERS, AND IN THE LONG RUN THAT IS ALL THAT MATTERS.

The distinction between life lived as a success and life lived as a failure, it is a matter of class. Class is a product of body and mind and spirit. I suspect that it begins with an all-consuming desire to do your best, a compulsion that everyone has felt from time to time for different activities and at inconsistent times. Your challenge is to extend it to everything you do.

ARETE is SUCCESS which is DEFINED BY REACHING YOUR POTENTIAL. BE THE BEST YOU CAN BE. PLAY AND LIVE TO YOUR POTENTIAL.
